

SEC Required Report on Routing of Customer Orders for Quarter Ending March 31, 2009

UBS Securities LLC has prepared this report in compliance with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) Rule 606, which requires all brokerage firms to provide publicly available quarterly reports (the “Report”) on their order-routing practices. As required, the Report provides information on the routing of “non-directed orders” (any order that a customer has not specifically instructed to be routed to a particular venue for execution) where the principal value is less than $200,000 for equities and less than $50,000 for options. Therefore, many large institutional orders are excluded. However, smaller institutional orders (including some program trading activity) and most retail orders were captured in the data presented because they were below that threshold. For these non-directed orders, UBS Securities LLC has selected the execution venue on behalf of its customers.

The Report is divided into four sections: (1) securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange; (2) securities listed on the Nasdaq Stock Market; (3) securities listed on the NYSE Alternext US LLC or regional exchanges; and (4) exchange-listed options. For each section, the Report identifies the venues most often selected by UBS Securities LLC, sets forth the percentage of various types of orders routed to those venues, and discusses any material aspects of UBS Securities LLC’s relationship with those venues. The Firm currently holds equity interests in the following exchanges/market centers: NASDAQ Stock Market, Inc. (NASDAQ), BIDS Trading, L.P. (BIDS), and Boston Options Exchange Group LLC (BOX).

UBS will make available to any client the identity of the venue to which the client’s order was routed for execution during the six months prior to the client’s request, whether the order was directed or non-directed, and the time of the transaction, if any, that resulted from the order. To request this information with respect to any order you have placed, please contact your UBS sales person.

UBS Securities LLC is a market maker in listed securities. UBS Securities LLC stands to share in 100% of the profit or loss generated by its market making activities.

Orders that are received in securities for which UBS Securities LLC is a market maker may be executed through one of its market making desks/trading engines, except for orders from discretionary or managed accounts (of affiliates of UBS Securities LLC) which the firm routes as agent to other market makers for execution. Orders received in securities for which UBS Securities LLC is not a market maker are similarly routed to other market makers.

UBS Securities LLC may receive remuneration for order flow in listed and over-the-counter securities from various market centers, usually in the form of rebates for providing orders to those market venues. Any remuneration is generally offset by fees paid by UBS Securities LLC to those market centers for accessing orders or for other services provided by the market centers. However, due to variations among the market centers, UBS may receive a net payment from a given market center. Any net payments are retained by UBS Securities LLC to reduce expenses related to its products and services.
